The Financial Aspect of the Case. The threatening look of the political affairs of the country is at length having its effect upon the financial interests of the people. The most delicate, timid and sensitive of all the elements of national greatness and prosperity-money-is already fleeing the destructive contact of possible war growing out of the mismanagement of the government, and the presence of two great sectional parties. It is the first to seek safety at the approach of the storm, and the last to leave its retreat after the tempest is over. Its native

The Death of Gen. Walker.

We republish this morning from the N. Y. Herald, the correspondence between Commander Salmon, of the British steamer Icarus, and Gen. Disunion is the Word. If the people of Tennessee fail to be coninced of the deliberate purpose of the Breckinridge leaders in the Cotton States to break up the Union, and establish a Southern Confederacy, it shall not be for want of proof of the fact. The evidences thicken every day, and though we cannot give them all, as they come to us by every day's mail, we can give enough to remove all doubt from every impartial mind. Here is a brief article from the Auburn (Ala.) Sketch Book, of the 28th ult., which flies the flag of BRECKINRIDGE and The New York Daily Herald. LANE:

"Whether there be secession, revolution, or what not, one thing is certain-Lincoln never can be President of the Southern States. He is not so elected. We will have no President, then, until the Black Republican party recede from their position and allow the election of a national man, or antil forced by their refusal, we elect one for arselves. To do that, WE MUST FIGHT. God grant to avert the threatening danger. But while we thus pray, we arge our people to look the matter full in the face and prepare themselves. As numeaning to some as may now seem these red striped coats and waving plumes seen occa ionally upon our streets, it is well enough to have good guns and plenty of an auni-As to the mode of proceeding-the plan by which the people are to be thrust into the back-ground, and the Union dissolved over their heads, and if need be, against their will, we have the following foreshadowing by a correspondent of the Clayton (Ala.) Banner: "We have but little doubt that South Carolina is prepared to secede in the contingency supposed; and if no other State will lead though heretotore we favored co-operation. we now say let her go first, if, w thin three weeks after the election of Lincoln, Georgia, Texas Mississippi, Florida or Alabamba fail to lead off. We name these States in the order we prefer in reference to the popularization of the movement. But how? It must be by a coup d' etot, or it will fall through and fail. South Carolina, with her abstractions and nonsense, will be for calling a convention and discussing, in field and fireside, the question of disunion. This folly will end only in servile insurrections. Already the mere Presidential canvass is provoking them everywhere. The direct question of the Union or Disunion, of slavery vet non, will inevitably give them birth. The Legislatures have sovereign Governor convene the ordinary Legislature let it the next day declare the Union dissolv ed, and pass an act, denouncing as traitors, putting out of legal protection whoever may gainsuy the measure. This done, and universal suffrage, with its universal slavery basis, is perpetual. With any other course schism and bickerings ensue, and an enemy's party is organized among in, which, backed by the federal power, will effectually cripple and destroy us.' This writer is evidently "up to snuff." He foresees that this question is left to the people, the scheme may result in a total failure To prevent all this it is necessary to resort a coup d' etat-a movement like the one by which Louis Napoleon subverted the Repub lic of France and established his empire on its ruins-whereby the patriotic masses will be deprived of a voice, and the whole matter turned over to Legislative intriguers and plotters against the government. "The Legislatures are sovereign"-let them be called together and the next day declare the Union dissolved; and "then comes the tug of war." Men of Tennessee, friends of the Union everywhere! now is the time to utter your voice for the Union and its perpetuity Awake to the importance of the issues before you, and fly from leaders and parties to the rescue of the Republic from the hands of its feel comparatively independent on the subject-they still continue to proclaim their disunion purposes, seeming to care nothing for the severe trials which may result to others from that course. But they will learn that they are not wholly exempt, when it are too intimately connected to be suddenly and violently severed. The commercial operations of the country have built up a money system, which is comparable to the solar system. New York is our great centre of power and gravitation, and around it the minor centres revoive as satellites. The people even of the cotton States had about as well make up their minds to accept this fact. They are altogether out of it when they suppose they are independent of the "world and the rest of mankind." We have a most significant indication of the beginning, in the following from the Montgomery (Ala.) Mail, which goes about as far for disunion as any of them. It is taken from its impression of the 29th ult:

"It is generally understood in the city, that the Directors of the Central Bank bave de ermined not to discount any more paper until after the election. We presume they are afraid of the depreciation of property consequent on the election of a cut-throat, free-n gro, Black Republican administration Some say, however, that they are afraid of the effect of secession as a result of such an election-which, however can hardly be the case, as none know better than the Directory, that if that alternative be forced on the South, the extravagant demand for our cotton crop abroad, aided by judicious legislation in regard to our commercial interests, would soon place the South outside the crises and panics. Even the short crop of the present year, at the prices it will command, would relieve this section from all its in-debtedness. It is the Boston and New York importers, with their millions of unsold forcign goods, that will be hit by the panic; but to hear him—not of with them will also rest the responsibility of Y.
